Family Run Grocery Store Coming to South River

We are happy to announce the planned opening of a new grocery store that will better serve the community of South River and surrounding area. With the upcoming closure of South River's only current grocer, the Luksa and Smith families will be taking over the location and performing substantial upgrades over the next couple of months, with a planned reopening in August.

The new store will be called South River Freshmart, providing the community with access to the highly sought after "No Name" and "Presidents Choice" products.

"We're family owned and operated, and have purchased a home locally to make sure that we not only serve the people of South River, but are also active members of the community. We are making this significant investment because we believe in the people and community of South River and want to invest in its future prosperity. We look forward to meeting each and every one in the community as we serve all of your grocery needs."

The Luksa's and Smith's would like to thank South River Mayor, Jim Coleman, Clerk-Administrator Susan Arnold and Village Council, Township of Machar Mayor Lynda Carleton, Clerk-Treasurer Brenda Paul and Council, the Central Almaguin Economic Development Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the many supportive local business owners and Loblaw Companies Limited for all of your support in this endeavor.
